Riddick's Folly - The restoration of Riddick's Folly, the 1837 Greek Revival mansion in downtown Suffolk, is nearly complete. The furnishings should be returned to the building at the end of this month and the building should be open to the public the first week in March. They will open the doors with an exhibit entitled "A Share of Honor - Virginia Women 1600 - 1945" More information about the opening of the building will be sent to you by the Riddick's Folly Board. (Shortly after the first of the month we will be moving into the building with an office on the top floor. Please help if you are called on - the more hands available, the easier the job!)

From the Past

This month is the anniversary of the visit of the Marquis de Lafayette to Suffolk. He had been invited to this country by Congress in appreciation for his help to us during the Revolution. The following is printed from Fillmore Norfleet's Suffolk in Virginia - c. 1795-1840.

"On Friday, February 25, 1825, accompanied by an entourage comprising his son, his secretary Le Vasseur, and others, La Fayette took the 'Fayetteville stage' at Portsmouth, paused '4 miles this side of Suffolk,' where he was greeted by a 'deputation from the citizens,' and then lumbered into town where 'he was received with Military honors by that fine martial corps the 'Suffolk Columbians,' commanded by Capt.

Charlton, and escorted to the Court House.' He was lodged at the Castle Inn.

"At six o'clock dinner was served by James Holladay at the courthouse attended by eighty guests presided over by Mills Riddick, president, and Matthias Jones, vice-president, all of whom listened to an address by Joseph Prentis. Among the thirteen toasts given to countries, prevailing heroes, and ladies, was La Fayette's: 'To the town of Suffolk, and Nansemond County. May they forever enjoy all the blessings of Republican institutions, and prosperous industry.'

"Following the banquet, all went back to the drawing room of Castle Inn where the ladies were received until eleven. The next morning after breakfast, the General 'proceeded in Thompson's stage for Somerton escorted by a number of gentlemen in carriages and on horseback.' After dinner 'prepared in handsome style by Washington Smith, Esq.,' proprietor of an inn, the General left Somerton and swept majestically towards Murfreesboro."

Christmas Tour - 1987

About three hundred guests visited the four homes and three churches opened in Whayleville and Somerton during our Christmas tour. Our thanks to the homeowners, church members, hostesses and chairmen who worked to make this a success. Our special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. T. J. O'Connor who wore so many hats on our behalf. We hope to present a financial report from the tour at our February 21st meeting.

Due to an illness in the family of our Treasurer, Marilyn Hardin, we have not been able to keep our books entirely up-to-date since Christmas. Bear with us. Our best to Mr. Hardin.
